Italian Chamber Of Labor Acts For Suspect's Widow

NEW YORK, January 5.—The Italian chamber of labor announced today that a $100,000 damage suit had been filed here in state supreme court against Attorney General Palmer and four other officials of the department of justice in connection with the death of Andrea Salcedo, who jumped 14 stories to his death last May while under detention at department headquarters here in connection with the bomb outrages of June, 1919.

The suit brought by Salcedo's widow, named also William J. Flynn, chief of the department's bureau of investigation. It was charged that Salcedo had been beaten "terribly" and "tortured mentally and physically" that he lost his mind and became suicidally dependent.

The chamber announced that copies of the charges had been sent the Italian embassy at Washington and the Italian consulates at Boston and New York.

Crime Wave Unabated In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., January 5.—More sensational robberies occurred last night in Cleveland's crime wave while police were still trying to fasten the guilt of the St-Franco murder of last Friday on a list of suspects rounded up in the police dragnet.

Friend of Sly and Fanner are raising a $50,000 fund to be offered as a reward for the arrest of the murderers. Ten thousand dollars in liberty bonds and a diamond ring valued at $850 were stolen early last evening from Joseph Novogrodsky, he told police, when two masked men jumped aboard his auto in East Boulevard "as he was" driving home after paying off a note at a bank and redeeming the bonds.

Gold rings, valued at several hundred dollars, were stolen from the jewelry store of Mrs. Estelle Brock, when a rough dashed out of the store with a ring of rings.

Eighty-nine arrests were made by police last night in the clean-up crusade. Twenty-two suspicious characters were taken into custody for investigation.

Both were hopeful that something would happen, toward now, to prevent the execution.

O'Neil, who said he was in France nine months with the 37th engineers, murdered his wife, he said, because he found her unfaithful. Delt killed his 16 year old wife in a fit of anger, he declared, because her parents forbade him to live with her.

NOTED IRISH LEADERS REACH U.S. AS STOWAWAYS; CORK'S LORD MAYOR HELD

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 5.—Investigation of the circumstances surrounding the entry into this country of Donald J. O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who arrived at Newport News yesterday as a stowaway and without passport, was ordered today by the state department. Officials of the department intimated that unless some extraordinary basis for exemption was found it was probable that no distinction would be drawn between his case and that of any other stowaway.

NEWPORT NEWS, VA., January 5.—Continuing his attitude as to the purpose of his visit to the United States, Daniel O'Callaghan, lord mayor of Cork, who with Peter J. MacSwiney, of New York, brother of the late Terence MacSwiney, arrived here late yesterday as stowaways on board the American steamer West Cannon, was awaiting today a ruling from the immigration authorities at Washington which will decide whether he is to be permitted to enter this country. Mr. MacSwiney, who had a passport issued to him by American consular officials in England, was free to leave at will, but announced his intention of remaining with the lord mayor until his status was cleared.

Both stowaways were arrested on the arrival of the steamer from Ireland, but after their identity was established, MacSwiney was released and O'Callaghan permitted to proceed to a hotel where he is kept under surveillance of a guard furnished by local immigration authorities. Pending disposition of his request for admission, the lord mayor steadfastly refused to discuss his presence here, but MacSwiney volunteered the information that the Irish official came to the United States at the request of the committee of one hundred at Washington which is investigating the Irish situation.

MacSwiney explained that the British authorities had refused to permit O'Callaghan to visit America and that it was necessary to stowaway on some steamer in order to make the trip. As to himself, he said, he could have come home on a passenger ship, but preferred to accompany the lord mayor. Both had hoped to reach New York before their presence was known, as friends there were expected to arrange details of their entry.

MacSwiney left New York to visit his brother who then was starving himself in Brixton prison. That trip was made as a stowaway and without an American passport.

GERMANY IS FACING INDUSTRIAL STRIKES

LONDON, January 5.—Germany is again threatened with railway and industrial strikes, with railway and industrial strikes, according to an exchange Telegraph dispatch from Berlin today.

A large majority of the German railway men have voted in favor of a strike, says the message.

In the Ruhr and Rhine industrial districts, the dispatch adds, 91 percent of the workers have voted on a proposition to strike for increased wages.

The ministry considers the demands of the transportation men exorbitant and has threatened the dismissal of any of them who go on strike.

Ambushing Party Is Crushed

LONDON, January 5.—Sixteen members of a party that waylaid a detachment of troops at Meelin, northwest of County Cork, Ireland, were killed by the soldiers attacked and the remainder of the ambushing party were captured with all their guns and ammunition, says a Dublin dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company today.

None of the troops was injured.

This is the first time, it is charged, that an ambush on a large scale has been effectually beaten.

The ambush, according to the Evening News dispatch from Cork, occurred in a secluded roadway outside the village of Meelin, near Kanturk. Three military lorries, says the account, were coming from Mallow, when a bomb was thrown at the leading vehicle. The bomb missed its mark. Revolver fire was then opened on the lorries, which halted while the troops poured rifle fire into both sides of the road.

Added by a smoke screen, continues the account, the troops made a sortie and rounded up all the attacking party, killing sixteen of them and capturing the remainder with all their guns, rifles and ammunition.

LONDON, January 5.—James J. Walsh, a Sinn Féin member of parliament from the City of Cork, who escaped from Mount Joy prison, Dublin, 18 months ago, was arrested early today, it is said in a dispatch received here. He had avoided attempts to arrest him since gaining his liberty, although, as alderman of Cork, he had attended his civic duties regularly.

DUBLIN, January 5.—An official proclamation extends the martial law area to counties Clare, Waterford, Wexford and Kilkenny and to the city of Waterford.

Interpretation Of Single Word "Association" May Decide Success Of Harding's Plans

BY ROBERT T. SMALL
(Copyright, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
AKRON, O., Jan. 4.—As the consequences of "best minds" continue here at Marion, it is becoming quite apparent that much of the success or failure of the plans Senator Harding may have in mind as to the future international relationship of the United States, will depend upon the interpretation of a single word.

What is an "association" some of our "best minds" are decidedly at odds as to the correct definition, and are pressing their conflicting views upon the President-Elect. The difficulty of the situation arises out of the fact that Senator Harding promised in his campaign speeches he would do his best, at the earliest possible date, to bring about a "new association" of nations to replace the General League of Nations, upon which he definitely turned his back at Des Moines at a supposedly critical moment of the Presidential contest.

Wants To Carry Out Promises
Senator Harding still is old fashioned enough to believe that campaign promises should be carried out so far as it is humanly possible to do so. Certainly he feels this ought to be done where the promises were so definite.

WOMAN BALKS AT DARING BANDIT

NEW YORK, January 5.—A lone woman, Miss Anna Hendricks, ticket seller in a subway booth at Fifth Avenue and Fifth-ninth street, this morning frustrated an attempted robbery by an unarmed man and fought with him until help arrived and he was arrested.

The station was deserted except for Miss Hendricks and her assistant, when the latter, who gave his name as Peter Melia, of Astoria, broke the glass panel of the ticket booth and forced his way inside.

Miss Hendricks grabbed up a sack of $50, but was knocked down by Melia, police said. Then the plucky woman gave fight, grappled with the man and shouted for help. A negro entering the subway at that moment blew a police whistle and Melia rushed into the arms of a patrolman at the subway entrance. Melia was charged with assault and attempted robbery.

Biggest Raid In New York During Dry Era

NEW YORK, January 5.—The biggest liquor raid in this city since the Volstead act went into effect, was made here today when $250,000 worth was seized by federal agents at the wholesale establishment of Singer Brothers on lower Third avenue.

Scores of cases of highest quality champagne and imported wines with hundreds of cases of bonded whiskey, constituted the stock seized by the raiders.

Joseph Walsh, a driver, and Joe Herman, employed by Singer Brothers, were arrested. Walsh was charged with violation of the transportation provisions of the Volstead act, and Herman was taken in connection with alleged changes in office records of liquor receipts.

No charges were made against Louis and Joseph Singer, members of the firm of Singer Brothers. The firm, according to enforcement agents, had a permit to transport liquor, but Walsh is alleged to have made deliveries without authorization.

Balloonists Have Remarkable Escape From Clutches Of Frozen North; Have Harrowing Experiences When Aircraft Hits Tree

HEARST, ONT., January 5.—Tales of terrible hardships endured by the most fortunate by the three stranded American naval balloonists from Rockaway, New York, in the frozen wilds of the Canadian north, were related here today by Indian trappers arriving from the lower Hudson bay district.

Their stories in the main corroborated reports from Cochrane that the airman were on the verge of starvation and were forced to eat their two remaining carrier pigeons, to keep alive. The men are now slowly wending their way back to civilization by dog trail, with the thermometer registering 30 degrees below zero. Unless unusual storms are encountered they should reach Mattice no later than Friday. A pullman coach will be placed at their disposal when they leave the trail there.

The men are in good health and spirits, the trappers say, with the exception of Lieutenant Stephen A. Farrell, the eldest of the trio, who suffered greatly from frost bite and shock.

According to the stories of the Indians, the howling of a moose dog caught in a trap at Slipsands, the original trading post of the Hudson Bay Company, was responsible for the safety of the airman last Sunday. When they heard the dog's cries, the balloonists decided to land. The great balloon struck in a clump of trees ten miles south of the post, and its occupants were almost stripped of their clothing in the perilous descent.

At the time of the landing, the mercury was only ten degrees below zero, the mildest weather for this season of the year in the history of the trading post. When the men extricated themselves from the wreckage, the first words were uttered by Lieutenant Walter Hinton, a veteran of the historic trans-Atlantic flight in the NC-4, who extended "gracious thanks" to the Almighty for their existence.

The next thought of the airman was to express thanks to the unfortunate dog, whose howls caused them to descend. For almost forty hours the Americans had no food, and for the time being they were too exhausted to do anything but congratulate themselves upon their safe landing.

The airman had been drenched to the skin and icicles hung over their torn clothing. For four days they wandered aimlessly in the wilderness and were at the point of despair, when they were discovered by a frightened Indian trapper, George McLeod, the Indian mail carrier, who brought the news of the men's landing to the outside world, said that their first desire was to notify their wives and relatives of their safety.

George McClelland, who has been hitting the trail between Moose Factory and Mattice for seventeen years, said today that had the balloon drifted ten miles further north they would not have lived to tell the story. More than one hardy trapper has met his fate in that desolate region rarely ever trod by human beings, he said.

The Anglican Minister at Moose Factory, the Hudson Bay Company's trading post, where the aviators found shelter, reported that the balloonists, who left the Rockaway, N. Y., Naval Air Station at 12:15 p. m. December 13, landed 14 miles northwest of Moose Factory, in the afternoon of the next day. They thought they were still in New York state, having been in the clouds all of the time since leaving Rockaway.

They came down, the minister said, because they thought they heard a dog barking. They were lost in the deep undergrowth of the region for the next two days and had about given up hope of ever reaching civilization.

Fortunately, on December 17, they came to the Moose River and found tracks of human feet through the deeply packed snow. Later they caught up with an Indian, who was out hunting. One of the three aviators was using a suit of underwear as an outer garment, and the others were in uniform. The Indian, taken by surprise by such a meeting in that desolate section of the country, is reported to have first resisted their efforts to fraternize with them. Eventually, they succeeded in convincing him that they meant no harm and he guided them to the Moose Factory trading post.

Absence of severe frost during the time of their wandering in the forest, undoubtedly saved them from perishing. They had eaten two of their three pigeons when they arrived at Moose Factory, where they were cared for by inhabitants of the trading post. The eating of the pigeons apparently explains the mystery of why the men had not communicated with the outside world after leaving Rockaway.

A few minor markets were to open today, while the larger ones suspended sales yesterday with the agreement that they would stay closed for at least a week. The directors received word from Columbus that the Columbus C. of C. had charge of the inaugural exercises and would invite the officers and directors of the local C. of C. ENTHUSIASM MARKS MEETING OF SCIOTO COUNTY REPUBLICAN CLUB

Morning Sun Is Endorsed

There was a splendid attendance and much enthusiasm prevailed at the regular meeting of the Scioto County Republican Club held at the club rooms in which was marked by a number of informal talks by members of the party, including Dr. F. H. Williams, Elmore Musser, City Treasurer A. J. Fuller, Attorney E. W. Moulton, Editor H. K. Hamblin of the Morning Sun, J. D. Littlejohn of the Sun staff, J. F. Eckhart, Joseph T. Micklethwait and others.

President Frank E. Kiefer presided over the meeting and introduced the speakers, the addresses following a short business session, during which a communication was read from Chairman Clark of the State Committee, inviting the club to attend in a body the inaugural of Governor Davis next Monday. A number of members signified their intention of attending the ceremonies at the Capital, and a committee of five, composed of Earl Chandler, John F. Eckhart, James Starlin, W. L. Dickey and Sheritt Dickey was named to officially represent the club and induce as many others to join them in representing Scioto county at the inaugural as possible.

The committee on arrangements was composed of Frank E. Kiefer, Henry K. Ruel and Joseph T. Micklethwait and the success of the meeting was largely due to their efforts.

Brief Addresses
At the conclusion of the business session Editor H. K. Hamblin of the Morning Sun was introduced to the audience and briefly expounded the mission of the newspaper, of its Republican proclivities, that it would be found battling for the party success and dealing fairly with the opposition and never at any time taking the side of any faction within the party, being first a newspaper carrying at all times the news which could be read with much satisfaction and information by all persons regardless of party.

He was followed by J. D. Littlejohn of the Sun staff, who talked a few moments to old friends in a friendly way in which he thanked them for their greeting. He spoke of the necessity of party unity to assure party success, of the recent glorious victory, of the noble attributes of our leaders and of the responsibility that rested upon all Republicans to give them support.

Stay Close To Principles
Dr. F. H. Williams spoke of the splendid display of pep on the part of the club members and stated that the club should go ahead with the work and members should attend regularly—that the organization would be unimpaired but ever ready when the next battle came. He urged that factionalism be laid aside. "Stay close to principles," the doctor urged, "and talk and act as Republicans."

Talks On Finance
A. J. Fuller, an old time tried and consistent party man, offered his serices to the club and to the party when ever needed, that he had been a Republican ever since there was a Republican party. He spoke of the finances of the club and how necessary for success it was that the affairs of the treasury be in a healthy condition and the liability column be short and small in totals. This brought up the matter of club dues and Gilbert S. Monroe joined in the discussion and as the result President Kiefer put on a dues drive that did not weaken the enthusiasm of those present in the least from the activity shown, which was another evidence that the club is very much alive.

Morning Sun Complimented
John F. Eckhart referred to The Morning Sun as a party paper, a newspaper very much needed by the party in the county and by the club and as it had appeared with its first splendid issue he believed that it was timely and in order for the club and all Republicans to give it their unqualified endorsement and support. Thereupon Joseph Micklethwait, offered a resolution which was seconded by various members of the club that moral and financial support of the club be given The Morning Sun. This resolution carried unanimously with considerable enthusiasm. On motion, the President was directed to appoint a committee composed of three members on club publicity and to assist the Sun in any way that will be beneficial to the paper and to the party. The President announced that he would appoint this committee at a future date. General approval of the Sun was given and its first issue paid many compliments. On motion of Benjamin Bratt, the secretary was ordered to subscribe for The Morning Sun for the club.

Best Way to Cut Cardboard.

Cardboard is used for so many purposes that it is well to know how to cut straight edges. Never use scissors for the purpose, because that makes ragged edges. First lay a brass-edged ruler on the cardboard with brass edge upward. As the ruler is beveled, the brass will be a fraction of an inch above the board when properly placed. Now procure a very sharp penknife, hold the ruler firmly, and draw the knife along the brass edge. Do not attempt to cut through the cardboard the first time, but merely score it deeply. Now remove the ruler and cut through the incision. The result will be a clean, a cut edge as a picture dealer can make on his walls.

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons, to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter If Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

OAK HILL

OAK HILL, Jan. 5.—Don, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McGowan, of South Oak Hill, was knocked down by an auto in front of his home. It was thought at first he was seriously injured, but upon examination, only a few bruises were found. The auto was driven by Nellie Miller, daughter of Henry Miller.

One of the most delightful social events of the season was the party given at the comfortable farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Circle on Tuesday evening, December 28th. The house was beautifully decorated with Christmas garlands, and a general holiday spirit prevailed. The affair was in the nature of a "food party," each guest being asked to come dressed to represent a certain kind of food. Much amusement was afforded, as each one present tried to guess what food some one else represented.

Probably the most unique and hardest to guess was a cartoon of Governor Cox, which was drawn shortly after the election. This meant beet (beet). Tom S. Jones created a big laugh when he appeared with eight large "O's" across the front of his coat. David Price Evans was given a fancy box of candy by guessing the largest number. Tom S. Jones won a large box of nuts, in the "nut hunting" contest, in which nuts of various kinds were hidden around the rooms.

At the close of the evening, a delicious lunch, consisting of Pimento sandwiches, fruit salad, cake, coffee, nuts and candy, was served. Those enjoying the evening were: Mr. and Mrs. Ray Crabtree; Mr. and Mrs. Herb Gabin; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Davis; Mr. and Mrs. John Circle; Mr. Mrs. Earl Circle; Margaret and Harold Crabtree; Virgil Wilson; Thomas S. and David Jones; Baldwin, Mary Hannah, Margaret and Ann Elizabeth Lewis; Doris P. and Clara Bruns. The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre of Springfield; John Davis of Detroit, Mich.; and Miss Edwin Evans of Cleveland.

Mrs. Cecil White and son Glen and Mrs. James Herbert were Portsmouth visitors Monday.

First New Year Baby
The first baby of the New Year arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gilliland on New Year's day. It was a girl. Mrs. Gilliland will be remembered as Anna Opal Moreau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan M. Morgan of Howitt's Fork.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Kisor are proud parents of a daughter born Dec. 30th. New Theatre Manager.

BILLS START POURING INTO THE HOPPERS

COLUMBUS, O., January 5.—Thirteen bills introduced in the house late Tuesday will be placed in the hands of the newly created reference or "sifting" committee, which will pass upon them before they are ordered printed and referred to the proper committees. This committee is an innovation in the Ohio law-making body. It is designed to prevent the printing of different bills bearing upon the same subject and bills introduced as "jokers". It is estimated that it will save the state thousands of dollars in printing bills.

Among the bills introduced was a financial relief bill for cities offered by Representative Taft, of Cincinnati, to allow cities to issue bonds for deficiencies in operating expenses for 1921. Similar measures were passed by the previous legislature for 1919 and 1920. It is a temporary taxation measure and its application will enable many cities to get by for another year until some permanent relief is afforded.

A bill introduced by Representative Kuhn of Dayton, would abolish the non-partisan judicial ballot and a measure by Representative Spidel of Dayton, provides for the use of voting machines in Ohio where 20 percent of the electors approve of the use of machines. Many election authorities believe that a constitutional amendment will be necessary before voting machines can be used in this state, the supreme court having once ruled against their use.

The Ohio chiropractic bill, permitting chiropractors to have their own licensing board made up of members of their own profession and divorcing them from the state medical board, defeated two years ago, was before the legislature again today, introduced by legislation. It is known as "initiated bill No. 13."

A penalty of $100 to $500 and imprisonment for from one to three years is provided for refusal of automobile drivers to give their names in cases of automobile accidents, in a bill introduced by Representative Robinson, of Hancock county. Another bill introduced by Robinson would permit consolidation of duties of safety and service directors and also the merging of other departments in cities.

Opponents of the Miami conservancy district have renewed their fight in the legislature for a law which would place the auditing of the books of the conservancy district under the state auditor. Representative Matthews introduced a bill to provide for this. A similar bill was twice defeated in a previous session.

INTIMATE PICTURES OF SONGBIRDS IN THEIR OWN NESTS

Famous stars of the Chicago Grand Opera Company snapped in their homes.

There is always great curiosity on the part of most people concerning the private life of public entertainers. This group of photographs shows some intimate views of famous opera stars snapped during their leisure moments at home. And, really, they are quite like other people. At the upper left is shown Mr. and Mrs. Virgilio Lazari. They are said to be the most devoted couple among the stars of the Chicago Grand Opera Company. They are shown practicing together in their home.

Below is Cyrena Van Gordon, prima donna, who is Mrs. S. B. Rogers in private life. She is not only a singer, but a home loving woman and an excellent cook. She is having afternoon tea with her husband, Dr. S. B. Munns.

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a young man and met a girl like real well about two months ago. The other fellows like her too, and there is one boy in particular who is trying to beat my time. I have the inside track now but I do not know how long it will last. What would you do about it?

Dear Miss Wise—I know you are not a lawyer, but would be glad if you will answer this question. If a mother would sell the home place without the consent of the children could the purchaser be forced to give it up? If the money was refunded?

Dear Miss Wise—I am one among the many who are coming to you for advice. I am a girl of 18 and keeping company with a fellow of 21. Now I am not jealous of this fellow, but he has promised to be true to me if I would be to him. I have kept my word, but there has been evenings when he wouldn't want any date. And then other fellows would tell me about seeing him down the street talking to other girls. Now Dolly I am not engaged to this fellow and I know it isn't anything to me who he talks to, but do you think he is as good as his word?

Dear Miss Wise—I have a daughter of 17 whom I raised with the very best of care, and I don't object to her having girls and boys coming to the house to spend an evening occasionally, but my daughter wants to meet the boys out on the street corner. She says other girls do it and she is going to do it too. She says it is proper to stay out till ten at night and she is out nearly every night, and if she does happen to stay at home she keeps her nose stuck into a novel or goes right to bed and isn't the sweet and lovable girl she used to be before she started to run around. When can I do to change her ways? I am good and kind to her and if I start to give her advice she says I am out of date with the new ways. I can't get her interested in any kind of work. I do all her washing and mending and all she does is the dishes. Dolly I would like to put a bed in the living room so I could rent our bed room and make a little money. She won't hear to it. Our rent is so high, and I don't think it would be a disgrace to have a nice clean bed in the living room do you? Please give me your advice about this.

Dear Miss Wise—I am an old man and would like some help from you. I have read your paper since I was a young man, and this is the first help I ever asked for. Now I had a dear friend that died a few years ago who had a dear little girl that we always talked about at his work, he loved her so much. She got married since he died and the man she married, isn't good to that little girl but she won't tell any one but she cries all the time and you can hear her crying some times when he is there. Dolly I would give all I have to help her. I think the man drinks sometimes. What can I do for my poor friend's girl? The poor man did me a kindness once and I owe it to him to help his child.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a girl of 13 and want to be an actress. Dolly do you have to be well educated before you can go on the stage? And Dolly do you have to know how to dance? Dolly I have brown hair and light complexion and very good looking. Dolly do you think I could get in at the Sun. Dolly my mother don't care and my father don't care.

Dear Miss Wise—I would like to ask the party who found the leather hand bag the Tuesday after Christmas to please phone 1090-14 again. I mis-understood their address when they called before.

Cleveland, Ohio—Dear Dolly—Will you please tell "Most Grateful" whose letter you answered in the paper of lowering mixture prepared at the drug store, she should have no further trouble with chapped hands. I tried this after using most of the prepared lotions, with no success. 2 parts of glycerine, 1 part Bay Rum, 2 drops of carbolic acid. Vinegar or lemon should be rubbed into the hands after using strong soaps or household cleansers.

She says it is proper to stay out till ten at night and she is out nearly every night, and if she does happen to stay at home she keeps her nose stuck into a novel or goes right to bed and isn't the sweet and lovable girl she used to be before she started to run around. When can I do to change her ways? I am good and kind to her and if I start to give her advice she says I am out of date with the new ways. I can't get her interested in any kind of work. I do all her washing and mending and all she does is the dishes. Dolly I would like to put a bed in the living room so I could rent our bed room and make a little money. She won't hear to it. Our rent is so high, and I don't think it would be a disgrace to have a nice clean bed in the living room do you? Please give me your advice about this.

Dear Miss Wise—I am an old man and would like some help from you. I have read your paper since I was a young man, and this is the first help I ever asked for. Now I had a dear friend that died a few years ago who had a dear little girl that we always talked about at his work, he loved her so much. She got married since he died and the man she married, isn't good to that little girl but she won't tell any one but she cries all the time and you can hear her crying some times when he is there. Dolly I would give all I have to help her. I think the man drinks sometimes. What can I do for my poor friend's girl? The poor man did me a kindness once and I owe it to him to help his child.

Dear Miss Wise—I am a girl of 13 and want to be an actress. Dolly do you have to be well educated before you can go on the stage? And Dolly do you have to know how to dance? Dolly I have brown hair and light complexion and very good looking. Dolly do you think I could get in at the Sun. Dolly my mother don't care and my father don't care.

Dear Miss Wise—I would like to ask the party who found the leather hand bag the Tuesday after Christmas to please phone 1090-14 again. I mis-understood their address when they called before.

Cleveland, Ohio—Dear Dolly—Will you please tell "Most Grateful" whose letter you answered in the paper of lowering mixture prepared at the drug store, she should have no further trouble with chapped hands. I tried this after using most of the prepared lotions, with no success. 2 parts of glycerine, 1 part Bay Rum, 2 drops of carbolic acid. Vinegar or lemon should be rubbed into the hands after using strong soaps or household cleansers.

Dear Miss Wise—I am one among the many who are coming to you for advice. I am a girl of 18 and keeping company with a fellow of 21. Now I am not jealous of this fellow, but he has promised to be true to me if I would be to him. I have kept my word, but there has been evenings when he wouldn't want any date. And then other fellows would tell me about seeing him down the street talking to other girls. Now Dolly I am not engaged to this fellow and I know it isn't anything to me who he talks to, but do you think he is as good as his word?

Dear Miss Wise—I have a daughter of 17 whom I raised with the very best of care, and I don't object to her having girls and boys coming to the house to spend an evening occasionally, but my daughter wants to meet the boys out on the street corner. She says other girls do it and she is going to do it too. She says it is proper to stay out till ten at night and she is out nearly every night, and if she does happen to stay at home she keeps her nose stuck into a novel or goes right to bed and isn't the sweet and lovable girl she used to be before she started to run around. BILLY WHISKERS

By FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

There were very few occasions and it's lonesome without a companion to share my pleasures.

Bleating his greeting, Billy advanced with a smile. Billy the Second nodded, but no answering bleat opened the way to conversation.

"I must admit that he's rather offish and high and mighty. He could at least pass the time of day," thought Billy, unused to having his friendly overtures met so coldly. "What shall I do to bring his High Mightiness down to my level?"

"O-o-o-h!" he said, peeping out from the other side of the German woman's skirts, only to find the other goat doing exactly the same thing. He's a fine animal, to be sure, and might prove a close rival. We'll see how much backbone he has," and Billy slowly advanced, stepping high and tossing his proud head from side to side the better to display his good points.

Goat Number Two likewise advanced, stepping just as high and lifting his head and tilting it provocatively to one side.

"Ah, ha! So he's going to show me he's a thoroughbred, is he? Perhaps it might be best for me to make his acquaintance and have him for my friend," weakening a little. "He's sure to be a power wherever he may live."

Billy always did believe that it was a wise thing to make friends with those who occupied prominent positions. This policy put into effect had brought both adventure and many good berths to him, and so now it had become almost second nature to Billy to bind to him as close friends and allies all those he could not conquer.

"Anyway, even if he proves as overbearing as he looks, it will be a great relief to talk to some one who can understand what I say. I am not accustomed to being without companions, especially since my circus experience, and

Her Own Career

By PHYLIS PHILLIPS

GWENDA LEAVES THE PARTY

While the fun was still at its loudest and wildest, Gwenda disappeared into the next room, zot into her clothes and, all unnoticed, slipped out of the place. She knew that she would not be missed for some time, if at all, for the tithing of Tim's parties were apt to be misty.

Once out in the cool air, her scattered senses came back to her. She stood still for a minute, drawing in deep breaths eagerly. Then she hailed a passing taxi.

Two minutes later, the taxi drew up at the street corner, and Gwenda dismissed it. She then walked down the block until, she came to Fedra's studio building, halted, irresolutely, for a moment, then seeing that there was absolutely no one about, she tipped to the window of the studio, which was on a level with the street.

One yellow curtain was blowing in the breeze, for a side window was half open, and there was a dim light beyond. Evidently Fedra had not yet retired.

Gwenda raised herself on tip-toes and looked in to see if anyone was there. At the sight which greeted her eyes, she remained transfixed to the spot for several minutes before she dropped again, with a little cry of horror.

What she saw was Fedra, sunk headless in a chair, his head buried in his arms, which were thrown out despairingly before him. He lay there, motionless, crushed. The room was in a state of wild disorder, as though some terrific struggle had taken place in it. And, worst of all, the canvas, that such a short time ago had held the vivid likeness of a lovely girl on its surface, was nowhere to be seen. Yes, after a minute, Gwenda did make out something on the floor near the easel, something lying in long ribbons and much trampled. She held her breath. Could it be? No, surely not. There must still be a just God, who would not allow such tragedies.

As she dropped sharply to the ground, Gwenda trembled. Then filled with an overwhelming pity for the artist in that silent room, she reached up again, and knocked softly on the window pane.

At first there was no response from the silent figure, and she waited. Then, once more she knocked, this time a little louder.

Fedra stirred, then as though overcome with horror at the thought that someone was once more persecuting him, he started up with a look of melancholy rage on his face.

"Who now?" he called hoarsely.

"What is it?"

"It is I, Fedra. Gwendenschka. Let me in, please. It is cold here."

At her words she saw his face change its expression and heard a quick intake of breath.

Without waiting to open the front door, and like a man possessed, Fedra threw open the studio window, leaped out, and picked up Gwenda by her two arms, as though she were a baby, and lifted her into the room beside him.

nite and personal as he made them. Platform promises of course, are quite something else again—sort of relic of a prehistoric age.

In his purpose to carry out the promise of a new association of nations, a handful of the bitter and irreconcilables at Washington see too close an approach to the idea of the present League of Nations, and a handful of irreconcilables, it has been proved in the past, can stir up a powerful rumormongering in the Senate. These irreconcilables say they will oppose with all their might any attempt to set up what might be called an organic association or league of nations, regardless of how much of the objectionable matter in the so-called Wilson League may be eliminated from the plan. The bitter enders, or "battalion of death" will stand for nothing that smacks of an international governing body. No matter how nebulous the governing power may be.

Want to See Administration a Success

At the same time, all but two or three of the irreconcilables want to help Warren Harding when he reaches the White House. They want to see the Republican administration a success. Of course, this does not refer to the Democratic irreconcilables in this connection, and there are likely to be more of these than the public suspects.

Senator Harding naturally would like to be assured of smooth sailing for his plan when he launches it in the Senate. He knows what happens to plans when there is no smooth sailing. Mr. Harding is convinced he can easily satisfy those Republicans who favored going into the present League of Nations with proper reservations, but he hopes he held a fortnight ago that the irreconcilables were about to fall in line appear to have been a bit short of late. Such irreconcilables as Senators Fall and New are so friendly to Mr. Harding and such strict party men they lulled the President-elect into the belief possibly that other irreconcilables would be as easy to handle. This has not proved the case.

The irreconcilables are amenable to reason, however, to the extent that they are willing to help Warren Harding by convincing him that an "association" may mean many things. Senator Reed, the Democratic irreconcilable, broke the ground in this respect when he told Senator Harding some time ago that he considered the exchange of ambassadors and ministers between nations as constituting an association of nations. William Jennings Bryan told Mr. Harding he considered that the thirty odd nations bound together in the arbitration treaties he negotiated as secretary of state constituted an association of nations.

Not Necessary to Set Up Body of Nations

And more recently has come Senator Knox, a real leader of the opposition to a league of nations, to point out to Senator Harding that it is not necessary to set up a body of the nations in order to have an "association" of nations. Mr. Knox's words have great weight with the President-elect. He argued convincingly it would seem that the United States should go no further than to make a declaration of policy but the world peace again being threatened as it was in 1914 the United States would cooperate with the friends of that civilization. Senator

Knox insisted that the declaration of such a policy, followed by similar declarations from other nations, would constitute an association of nations. The binding power of such an association, he said, would be just as great as if it were written on paper and decorated with signatures and sealings. If it can be gathered from all of this that Senator Harding is much perplexed as to just which way he eventually shall turn, the reader has a very good idea of the situation as it exists today at Marion.

bought more goods for $12,000, the total of $17,000 would represent the value of the goods ordinarily but in view of the fact that in most instances the selling prices have fallen below actual cost, a merchant is permitted to estimate what is the market value of his goods on hand. Supporting in this instance that prices have shrunk so that the market value of the goods is only $8,000. The merchant therefore can deduct $8,000 from $17,000 and the remainder $9,000 becomes the cost of goods sold. Then of the $10,000 for his goods during the year, his actual profit on which taxes would be paid would be the difference between the cost, $9,000 and the sales, $10,000, or $1,000. Similarly if his money receipts were only $7,000, he could subtract it from the cost of $9,000 and show a loss of $2,000 and pay no taxes whatsoever.

The important factor, therefore, in the ruling is that market prices. What does the term mean? Every merchant will have to make his own estimate. Naturally if he thinks the market price is much lower than his original cost, he is able to show that the goods have cost him a great deal and that his profits from sales are less. But the government will exercise a careful check on the "market price" and will investigate and compare all classes of returns so as to discover just what the prevailing prices were at the given period. If it should be discovered that a merchant on his income tax return said the market value of so many articles was such and such a price the government will see if the merchant actually gave the public the benefit of these prices and did sell his goods at those figures. Should there be a discrepancy between what the income tax return said was the market price and what the public actually paid, the government will consider the difference a prima facie evidence of fraud and will prosecute offenders.

Actual cost market price according to Government officials means the cost to merchant of replacing the goods. After all that is the price which a competitor would have to pay for the same kind of goods if he had no stock on hand and there will be plenty of instances of this kind on income tax returns which will enable the government to tell whether the men with the goods on hand properly valued them. It is naturally to the interest of the merchant to show on his income tax return that his goods have shrunk to a small price because that helps to diminish the size of his profits on which taxes are paid but if the government doesn't find the merchant selling to the public at somewhere near the prices at which he inventoried a charge of fraud will be entered and the income tax return will be held up and all sorts of complications would follow. On the other hand government officials anticipate that business in general will be more than anxious to give the public the benefit of the ruling because in taking losses now so much money will not have to pay so much money to the government in taxes and may indeed in many instances have more money individually than they had a year ago but by clearing their shelves and storehouses of last year's goods the price picture that helps to serve for the purchase of new goods at low cost prices making possible the earning of reasonable profits during the year 1921.

The ruling of the Treasury is not paternalistic. It is no sudden outburst of generosity but is a strictly legal interpretation of the revenue law. Legal experts figured it out that unless the government permitted firms to use present market values as a basis for cost, the government would be exacting money that was not actually earned and by controlling that the sums taken by the government are taxes on capital which of course is not legal.

COLUMBUS, O., January 5.—The County Auditors' Association of Ohio meeting here today adopted a legislative program calling for numerous amendments to the laws affecting their offices. The changes suggested include the following:

That all special assessments certified by municipalities be collected by city treasurers instead of the county treasurers except where payment of assessments become delinquent.

That the secretary of state furnish county auditors with duplicate copies of applications for automobile licenses in order to insure the listing for taxation of all automobiles.

The lads were made wards of the court after being ordered to pay for the stolen property not recovered and the plate glass window which they smashed with a lump of coal, together with the costs of prosecution amounting in all to $85, or $20.75 each. Case May Go Higher Prosecutor Sheppard and Judge Blair have indicated their intention to carry the case of the State against E. R. Norman and William Curley to the Ohio Supreme court.

Prosecutor Sheppard and Judge Blair handled the case for the state and Attorney A. R. Johnson, Ironton, represented the accused men.

Dog Tag Sale Is Slow

The sale of 1921 dog tags has now almost reached the 500 mark, but this is far short of the number of tags disposed of last year, when nearly 3,500 were sold, indicating that more than 3,000 canines are running abroad without the important tag license.

Officials in charge of the enforcement of the dog law declare this condition must not exist and they are now formulating plans to sound a stern warning to dog owners that they must comply with the law or face prosecution.

The tags are on sale at the auditor's office and the licenses cost but $1 for male dogs and $2 for females.

Genius Not Red-Headed.

According to the experts, history discloses the fact that few great geniuses had red hair, although John Bunyan had a fiery red head and Swinburne's locks were reddish. Dark brown to black is the prevailing hue on the heads of great men. A list of fifty names has been compiled in which the color of the hair is given by biographers, and 90 per cent are dark brown or black. The flaxen-haired blond, or the man whose hair when he is an adult is true yellow, is also said to be unlikely to possess genius. It is rather authoritatively reported that the C. & O. has awarded the contract for the construction of a third track between Russell and Ashland. This will make a continuous string of triple tracks from Russell to Huntingdon.

It is also said that in the very near future the terminals of the Lexington Division are to be moved from Ashland to Russell and that all the freight is to come into the C. & O. yards from the Lexington Division at the lower end of the present yards. Passenger trains would come into Russell also, and the removal of the terminals to Russell would mean the employment of several hundred more men.

Bridegroom Is Rudely Hauled Through Streets

Colleagues of Orin Graves, popular clerk employed at the office of the American Railway Express company, on Waller street, who was recently married, had considerable fun at his expense Tuesday night when they made him a prisoner and hauled him about the streets handcuffed in a stockade mounted on an express truck. The outfit attracted much attention as it moved over the streets, and frequent stops were made to give pedestrians an opportunity to gaze at the "prisoner," who accepted the penalty in the spirit it was inflicted.

The bridegroom "prisoner" was finally released and sent home to wife, who was formerly Miss Faye Riekey, of Winchester.

OUR Corset Department is a place of personal service where you will receive expert advice concerning the type of corset required for your figure, as well as the most satisfactory attention. We feature full figure fitting.

CARE in corseting the girlish figure will be well repaid by smartness of line in maturity. We have a variety of models for the young girl. Bring her in, and let us advise her about her first corset.

TWO corsets worn alternately will outwear three corsets worn consecutively. Let us help you to select a model for rest or evening wear, as well as an everyday corset.

WHEN you divide the moderate price you pay for a Warner's Rust-Proof Corset by the number of days you can wear it—you will see that it is the most economical corset you can buy. Try one today!

YOU WANT GOOD EYESIGHT?

Then take care of your eyes by having them examined by us. Don't neglect. Do it at once. Headaches, pain above the eyes and back of head are caused by eyestrain and can be corrected by our properly fitted glasses.

We carefully examine the eyes and furnish glasses at a reasonable charge.

WILLIAM S. HART

Is The Lyrical Tomorrow, "What Does 'Sand' Mean?"

See William S. Hart in Western Picture and Learn Secret.

What is the meaning of the title "Sand"? which William S. Hart has given to his latest drama for the screen, released by Paramount Art-craft and now to be seen at the Lyric theatre tomorrow.

It has a double meaning. Sand—the sand of the desert, wherein, the story is laid; Sand—the grit of a man's mental and moral and physical makeup.

And the latter quality is what Mr. Hart displays in this picture which brings him to the adoring public once more in a typical western tale, with holdups, wild riding, love, adventure and excitement as the qualities most prominent in the story.

Mary Thurman is a delightful leading woman. The balance of the cast is excellent and the direction by Lambert Hillyer, who also wrote the scenario, is perfect.

Added attraction, Fatty Arbuckle Comedy, "A Reckless Romeo."

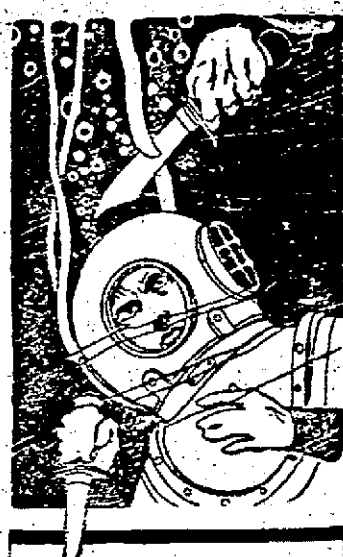

IT'S AXIOMATIC

MAURICE TOURNEUR

PRESENTS THE GREAT RUBY LANE
MELODRAMATIC SUCCESS

'THE WHITE HEATHER'

by Cecil Raleigh and Henry Hamilton

Produced by MAURICE TOURNEUR PRODUCTIONS, INC.
Paramount-Artcraft Special

A Fight To The Death Between Divers at the Bottom of the Pacific Ocean is the Big Scene in "The White Heather" to be shown at the Lyric Theatre tonight.

A Two Reel Comedy Screen Complete The Show. Many so-called genuine diving scenes have been put on the screen but the Temple presents tonight a duel actually staged on the bottom of the sea and not in a big tank as most of these scenes are. In this picture the actors are equipped with the regulation diving apparatus and descend to the sea bottom.

The camera is lowered near them in a specially prepared tube which also contains the high powered lights necessary to furnish the illumination and the light is on. This method of taking underwater pictures is patented and you should not deny yourself the privilege of seeing a view of the real ocean bottom with a better hand to hand conflict going on at the same time.

We haven't as yet said anything about the story and space forbids that we say more than that this production is one of the most interesting ever put on the screen. It is directed by Maurice Tourneur, whose name is synonymous with all that is high class in motion pictures. You'll either be at the Temple tonight or be sorry you weren't.

FORBIDDEN VALLEY
with MAY McAVOY
and BRUCE GORDON

A Blackton Production

"The Forbidden Valley," A Story of Old Kentucky That is Full of the Good Things You Like so Well in a Picture, is the Strong Attraction at The Strand Tonight and Tomorrow.

Also Big V Comedy and "Velvet Fingers."

"Forbidden Valley," featuring May McAvoy and Robert Gordon at the Strand today and tomorrow is said to be a mountain tale of feuds and romance that is different. The mountain maid does not fall in love with her enemy and in that way bring about amicable relations between two families. Neither are there any moonshine stills or revenue agents.

The story of "Forbidden Valley" is concerned with the fight between two families who had been enemies for generations. There had been peace for fifteen years because all the Mitchells were dead except one, and he had gone from the valley.

As the last of the Lees, taught to hate the Mitchells, Glory must be willing and ready to do a man's part to fight the feud to the end. Could she raise her gun against her lover? Could she put the honor of the Lees ahead of her great love? For answer, see "Forbidden Valley." Also Big V comedy and "Velvet Fingers," serial.

A Scene from "Hearts Asleep," Bessie Barriscale's Latest Screen Drama.

Lincoln Tonight, "Hearts Asleep," A Drama Starring Bessie Barriscale. A Photoplay for the Rich and Poor. Young and Old. Also Another Good Colored Comedy. Screen Featuring Bert Williams.

"Hearts Asleep," Bessie Barriscale's latest production for Exhibitors' Mutual, has all the elements of an excellent photoplay—humor, pathos, romance, mystery, atmosphere, dramatic action. An unusual story acted by a splendid cast makes this picture well worth seeing. It was produced by E. B. Features, Inc.

The theme is one which will interest all, rich and poor, the society woman and the shop girl, the millionaire and the man who has no income tax to pay.

It resolves a pertinent and much-discussed subject in a satisfactory way. There is a love-story—the romance of a girl of the slums and a wealthy bachelor; how a girl who had lived among crooks all her life went straight in spite of every temptation, and eventually proved herself superior in character to the society girl who had all the advantages of wealth, health and social standing.

Also a rip-roaring Bert Williams comedy. Don't miss it tonight.

New York merchants, faced with the task of helping to protect themselves from visits of gunmen, have perfected many novel devices to aid them if held up. One of the novel schemes is shown above. When confronted by a gunman the clerk moves his heel back to a nearby button. Pressure on this lights a red danger signal in front of his store and attracts the attention of police and courageous pedestrians.

A HEART-DRAMA OF 10,000

SMALL TOWNS AND 60,000,000

PLAIN PEOPLE

ASSOCIATED PRODUCERS INC. 7

Extraordinary Engagement at the Eastland Theatre Starting Tomorrow Night for Three Nights—Thurs., Fri., Sat.

It, Inc., the Screen's Foremost Producer, Presents "Home Spun Folks."

A Mother Story That Hits The Greatest Target in All the World—The Human Heart—A Successor to "The Old Homestead" and "Way Down East." You Can't Miss It.

Tears vie with smiles in the story of "Home Spun Folks." Thomas H. Ince's tremendous triumph for the Associated Producers, Inc., which will be shown at the Eastland theatre tomorrow. Perhaps in no American-made photoplay of recent years has there been such a vast wealth of appeal, combining human interest, comedy and melodrama. The new Ince picture contains heart throbs, romance and pathos, in addition to numerous comedy touches.

It tells of a country lawyer's fight against crooked politics, and as a modern picture of small town life holds the mirror truthfully to the real thing. These are the big lights of "Home Spun Folks"—its realism, its simple honesty. The characters are real, the plot is a story of human people and the direction is chock full of master touches.

Lloyd Hughes is the young district attorney with a conviction making a definite step toward his screen career. Growth and score being apparent in his characterization.

In presenting for its patrons "Home Spun Folks," the management of the Eastland has given it its unlimited endorsement to the production in its entirety. Your early attendance will be greatly appreciated. P. There will be no advance in admission prices for this engagement.

CAUSE OF EARTHQUAKES.

Modern geological science holds that earthquakes are due to "faulting."

"Faults" are breaks in the strata of the earth's surface, the broken edges slipping past each other so that the same rock is found at different levels on opposite sides of the fault. These breaks occur weak places in the earth's crust 4 from time to time more slipping occurs. When this happens, an earthquake of greater or less violence is the result.

CHAIRS OF HISTORIC INTEREST.

There is still kept in the museum at Dorchester, England, the Judge's chair—a very substantial article—used by Jeffreys at the assize at which he tried the Monmouth rebels after Sedgemoor, in 1685; and in Moreton-in-the-Marsh may be seen the elaborately upholstered chair and footstool used by Charles I at his trial. They are kept in a glass case.

HALF A CHANCE

with Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich

From the novel by Frederic S. Isham

Starting Today, the Exhibit Will Offer the Most Sensational Stupendous and Human Drama the Screen Has Ever Known—"Half a Chance" with Mahlon Hamilton and Star Cast—Also Harold Lloyd, Rebe Daniels and South Pollard in "Bees in His Bonnet," A Laughing Treat.

A play men will remember—a romance to thrill women. That is what awaits you at the Exhibit Theatre tonight, first time, sure, in the initial showing of Frederic S. Isham's great novel "Half a Chance" starring Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich.

With our unqualified seal of approval we wish to personally commend the stupendous drama, "Half a Chance," for your attention. It features Mahlon Hamilton and Lillian Rich. For sheer action, tremendous heart appeal and thrilling scenes, no production—not even "The Spoilers" or "The Barrier"—has ever equaled "Half a Chance." It sweeps with the surge of Niagara from the prize ring to a steamer's stokehold—to a sensational shipwreck and wonder scenes on a desert island. Back it flashes to high society and underworld life. It mirrors the soul of a man's man—a woman's hero. Buffeted by the law, lashed by fate, shipwrecked, with everything against him except a faithful dog, an accident turned his half a chance into a whole one, and he took it.

Each climax is like the bolt of lightning, vivid and surprising. Each clash of mind or body is a tense battle, picked with enthralling interest. And the romance is as alluring as lavender and old rose. Rare entertainment indeed—a gigantic production one to lift and exalt you. See it at the Exhibit Theatre. It will keep you talking about it for months.

And don't forget your old friend Harold Lloyd will also be on the program in one of his best comedies, supported by Rebe Daniels and South Pollard. The Eastland Orchestra have arranged a beautiful musical theme as a prelude to the feature.

Halloween.

The celebration of Halloween dates back to antiquity. It was a holiday combining classic mythology, Druidic beliefs and superstitions of that far away time. The change to a social anniversary was gradual and finally became a recognized time for general merriment.

BEWARE OF CLOGGED KIDNEYS

Use Solvax to stimulate their action and get the poisons out of your blood.

Often the violent headache comes from poisons in the blood that congestion in the kidneys has failed to pass out through the bladder. General disturbances, dizziness, back pains, tired feeling in the legs and mental depression are some of the symptoms apt to follow.

Your best medicine to relieve this condition is a remedy called Solvax, sold by Warriner Bros., and other leading druggists on the liberal plan that you can try it and if it doesn't prove satisfactory they will refund the price paid for it.

For the reason that the kidneys themselves do not act, very serious conditions may set in, simply because the general disturbance and other symptoms are not recognized as due to clogged kidneys. Try Solvax. It cannot harm you and may be exactly what you needed to feel well again.—Adv.

A bear rarely lives above twenty years, a wolf twenty and a fox sixteen.

The average age of cats is fifteen years, and squirrels and hares six or seven. Pigs have been known to reach thirty years, the rhinoceros fifty.

HIS APPETITE WITH HIM.

A story is told of a jockey who after the race for which he had been long starving himself went to a hotel and ate a leg of mutton. When the waiter asked if he would like some sweets or cheese, he replied: "No, I never eat sweets. But if you have another leg of mutton I think I could manage it."

P. H. S. OPENS BASKETBALL SEASON FRIDAY NIGHT

Friday night will find the P. H. S. basketball five playing their opening game of the season in the local gym with the last Chillicothe XI against their opponents. The game will be started at 8 o'clock, sharp, and no doubt a big crowd will be on hand to give the Red and Blue lads a splendid send-off on this season's schedule.

Captain Muller will again play guard this year, which means all visiting forwards will have to go some to cage the ball for field goals. The forward positions will be well taken care of with several candidates fighting for each position. The same is true of center and the other guard positions, there being several students out for each place.

Chillicothe has always been represented by a strong team on the court and this season is no exception to that rule. This means that the local team will have to play hard to win the bacon in the opening contest of the season.

Tournament Is On

Athens Gridders To Face Stiff Schedule

Ohio University's football schedule for 1921 has just been announced and it consists of the hardest list ever attempted by this college and the hardest schedule ever booked by an Ohio Conference eleven, since the foundation of that league.

With such eleven as Syracuse University, West Virginia, Columbia University and a possibility of having Centre college in Athens it seems certain that the athletic rise of the O. U. is no bubble.

D bolstered with the strongest freshman aggregation that Ohio has ever had spring practice will feature an attempt by the Finsterwald men to give a good account of themselves next fall.

The schedule: Sept. 24, Morris-Harvey at Athens; Oct. 1, Syracuse at

EACH ONE CAN HELP

1920 has slipped into 1921 without any particular change, either for good or bad, but 1921 should be much better than 1920. Whether it will or not depends upon whether each individual, or at least the great majority, wishes it to be to the extent of playing his own part in that betterment.

That 1920 was not more prosperous and peaceful was the fault of the mass of the people, not absolutely altogether, but to a great extent. Inevitably a recession was due from the flush times of the war, but that recession would have been no worse had been as extreme and bitter as it became had it not been excessively aggravated by a riot of extravagance and ill temper of the populace. There was scant heed of the morrow and a vast plain about things that were not of small consequence. The bounty in hand was not appreciated and blessings were minimized against a multiplying imaginary and minor ills.

There was a veritable pandemonium of plaint and fault-finding and nothing that was right, or should be and in a frenzy of protest and heedlessness the pillars of the temple of prosperity were pulled down and the structure pulled down upon those who occupied it.

But after all, was it not a recession, a drifting back from the high tide of exaltation to which war had driven the nation, the working of the inexorable law of averages.

That, however, is no more than speculation. The call is to get back to common sense and common base. The country isn't ruined, it is only suffering from a relapse that is neither fatal any more than it should be alarming. The world has got to be rebuilt. America must play the major part therein, which means that full prosperity will return again with America sharing most bountifully therein. How quickly this shall come to pass depends upon how quickly and earnestly all set themselves to the task.

And the first and most essential implements at hand therefore are industry, thrift and hopefulness.

Most incomparable climate on earth, yet actually, there are people leaving for North Carolina and Florida.

That part of the city, which was once Seiotoville knows a good thing when it sees it. The postal station provided therefore, instead of the former postoffice, contains something the main office hasn't—private keyless mail boxes, 130 of them, and a 100 were rented the first day.

Have you ever thought of this weather that one of the best points about it is it furnishes the strongest argument for good roads? Go out beyond the paved pikes once and you'll appreciate how strong.

The legislature organized with the biggest majority of Republicans it ever contained of any part. Sit you down with such patience as you may and see if it will do the biggest things for the state.

We see where the Norfolk and Western is going to expend $23,000,000 in betterments. Fine Chamber of Commerce ought to get busy and secure a promise of that new station—for next year.

Charles Evans Hughes is said to be "set" for secretary of state. It is to be hoped he will shine brighter as such than he did as a presidential candidate.

Bread seems to be serenely uninformed of the sad fate that has overtaken wheat, or even flour, for that matter, a sharp and sudden decline.

The same thing can happen everywhere as was proven when auto thieves stole a safe right here in this man's town and toted it to unknown whereabouts.

This readjustment business would make more progress if the other fellows would take the lead.

Few persons care to have a man admit that he is wrong and then take the time to tell why.

What a thing cost is no measure of its solidity. All told the newspapers have paid somewhere around a million dollars in cable tolls for stories about d'Annunzio's future government and yet it collapsed like a soap bubble when the Italian government determinedly pointed bayonets at it.

A Club For Artists' Models

By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK CITY, Dec. 21.—To have the artist's model taken seriously is the purpose of an interesting club which has its headquarters in an old-fashioned house on West Fifty-Eighth street here. Pass this house at any hour during the day, and, if you are lucky, you are apt to see its ancient door creek open and the original of your favorite magazine-cover-girl trip sedately down the steps. For the house is usually full of them. It has about 150 such enchanting damsels on its membership list.

But they are to be taken seriously. Don't forget that.

The other day, a Broadway Don Juan, bewitched at the sight of his favorite bathing girl, picture actually walking down Seventh Avenue—not in a bathing suit, you understand, but recognizable nevertheless—proceeded to accompany her at a discreet distance as she turned down Fifty-Eighth street. When she left the pavement and ran up a pair of steps, he stopped in his tracks and, started in deep preoccupation at the door where she had vanished.

Suddenly, the door opened a second time, and a gray-haired, sweet-faced matron came out.

"Young man, what do you mean by following one of our girls?" demanded the lady quietly but firmly. "Now suppose you just run along back to Broadway, where you belong. The girls in this club are nice, quiet, refined girls, and they don't want to be annoyed, and, furthermore, we are not going to have a lot of idle, sapling men standing out here in front of our house."

Thus did the secretary of the club, as she later explained to the reporter, nip in the bud a movement on the part of the male population of New York to give the club its enthusiastic endorsement.

"The attitude of the public, especially the masculine public, toward the artist's model," said the secretary sadly, "is much the same as it is toward the chorus girl—entirely frivolous. It is also incurably romantic. People seem to have an idea that an artist's model is a gay young thing, who earns an easy, if not luxurious, living by posing for fashions and artists with long hair, or Oriental fezes, if they have bald heads. Now, as a matter of fact, posing is hard work, and until recently the average artist's model has been poorly paid and has been given about as much consideration as a table or chair."

Getting Jobs For Models
Here the telephone on the secretary's desk burst noisily into her ear, and she grabbed a notebook and pencil.

"Excuse me just a minute," she said, taking up the instrument. "Yes, I think we have just the girl you need—Miss B. You know her? Too thin? I don't believe we have anybody plumper. We consider her one of the plumpest girls we have. About 150 pounds, I should say, but tall and well proportioned. Yes, I think you might be able to use her face. Too. She's a good Spanish type. Well, she lives right up in your neighborhood—suppose I have her come in and see you, anyway. If she doesn't suit, perhaps we can get you some one else. Miss M., whom you had before, will be back from Havana Friday."

The secretary then explained that the club runs an employment bureau for its members, who are all registered and classified by types. Posing is somewhat like private nursing; a girl never knows how long her job is going to last or how much money it is going to pay her. Some artists take a long time to complete their work, and others work very fast. Some can afford to pay a high rate for a model, and others can scarcely afford to employ one at all. But conditions in this respect are better for posers than they have ever been before, thanks to the persistent mercenary efforts of the club. A good model can now demand and collect a dollar an hour for her work, at which rate some of them make as much as eight dollars a day.

Besides its employment bureau, the Art Workers' Club, as it is called, operates a restaurant on the first floor of the house, which serves excellent meals at cost, while five o'clock tea is served every afternoon absolutely free. To this artists as well as models are invited, since, as the secretary explained, "the chief object of the club is to bring the two factions together for the promotion of a better understanding."

Thus, on a rainy afternoon, the big clubroom is filled with models draped about the furniture in graceful attitudes, while they chat and drink tea with sociably-inclined artists. The room, with its artistic draperies and comfortable couches and easy chairs, looks more like a drawing-room than a club room; and the casual stranger would never guess from the frivolous repartee and engaging manner of its guests that serious business was being transacted. Yet it is at these teas that many New York artists find their various types of models.

The Costumes
On the third floor of its large, old-fashioned home, the club maintains a costume department, which contains costumes of every period and nationality. These are often rented at a nominal fee with the model. For instance, while the reporter was visiting the club the other day, a wealthy artist, who lives in a suburb of New York, came in and told the secretary he was in search of a Dutch type and a Dutch costume of the kind worn by a certain group of peasants living on an island in the Zuyder Zee. The artist was told to go up to the club room and make himself at home while the secretary found him a model. In a remarkably short time, a dark-haired girl, with broad cheekbones and a robust figure, came in the front door in answer to the secretary's telephone summons, and was rushed up to the third floor to be fitted for the said peasant costume. The same afternoon she was out at the artist's suburban studio, ready to take her pose.

Once, every February, the club has a Models' Review, which is considered one of the most important events in artistic circles. To this review all of the known artists in the city are invited. The club room is turned into a small auditorium, with rows of chairs to accommodate a large-sized artist audience, while in the center of the room is an elevated platform for the exhibition of the models. The girls appear in the most beautiful costumes that the costume department is capable of turning out—costumes representing everything from the early Greek and the Italian Renaissance periods to the latest frock and chaparral coming from one of the Paris fashions. By reviewing these models, the artist often gets the inspiration of his life, so we are told, while the model gets a well-paid job.

Fashions In Models
Not all of the models in greatest demand are beautiful, but all of them are distinctive. Types are what the artist wants—not necessarily pretty faces. This year girls of the Spanish type are much in demand, while last year there seemed to be a general preference for French girls. A few of the models, who are kept very busy posing for mural decorations and elaborate poses, are middle-aged and gray-haired, but as a rule the life of the average model is only too short. Youth, with its shimmering skin and firm, supple muscles, is the chief requirement in the posing profession, so when a model enters her thirties she also begins to look for another kind of employment. Sometimes she, herself, tries poster or commercial art design, and others return from whence they came—the theatrical profession or the business office.

Knowing how tragically short is the career of the poser, the Art Workers' Club endeavors to persuade its members to study for another profession while doing their regular work. According to the secretary, most of them are now following this advice, which keeps them extremely busy and certainly unable to indulge in all the mad gaiety with which the public credits them. "Of course," she explained casually, "the majority of them marry—either the artists they pose for, or milliners. It's no trouble for an art model to marry. The mere fact that she is an art model has a tremendous fascination for men."

"Then it seems to us that the art model does not require much help," said we, "so why did you start this club for her? She seems to be the last kind of a female in need of charity."

Then the secretary explained that art models have not always been so popular. There was a time years ago when no one paid much attention to them. When Miss Helen Sargent, now Mrs. Ripley Hitchcock and founder of the club, was studying at the Art Students' League some years ago, for example, such was the case. One afternoon a young girl posing for her class fainted from fatigue, and according to Mrs. Hitchcock it was 10 minutes before anybody went to her assistance. "Oh, it's only a model," they said indifferently. "They are always 'doing that.'"

It was then that Mrs. Hitchcock determined that things should change, that an organized club should be started for their benefit, and that the time should come when artists' models would be looked upon as human beings and treated seriously.

Q. Which speaker of the House served longest? D. D. S.

A. This distinction is divided between J. G. Cannon, who served from 1903-1911, and Champ Clark, who served from 1911-1919.

Q. What wood will resist decay most successfully? R. M.

A. The Forest Service says that this cannot be determined, since various species act differently in tropical and temperate climates. Lignum vitae probably comes nearest to living up to this term than any wood in the world. Generally speaking the following woods may be classed as durable: Black locust, cypress, greenheart, lignum vitae, mosquito, teak and the cedars.

Q. Can Indians own property, and can they vote? A. A. M.

A. A great many Indians are very wealthy and own a great deal of both real and personal property. A large number of them are fully enfranchised citizens of the United States. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs says that every effort is made to induce the Indian settlers on the reservation to improve themselves and make use of the opportunity America offers them to become citizens.

Q. When did music notes first come into use? Z. W. K.

A. It is not known exactly when music notes came into use. In the first half of the 13th century notes of definite length were introduced. The first real school of composition was in Flanders, Wm. Du Fay being the first of the composers of this school.

He was born shortly before 1400, and died in 1474.

Q. How can the corduroy lining to a go-cart be cleaned without removing? W. J. W.

A. Clean the corduroy with gasoline or benzine. Apply with a brush, wipe off with cloth dipped in clean gasoline, and place in sun to dry.

Q. Please explain just what "proof" means when used in regard to spirits and liquor. Such as "whisky 100 proof." F. W. L.

A. "Proof" or "proof spirit" is alcoholic liquor which has a specific gravity of 0.9184, as compared with water of which 0.945 of its weight, or 0.5727 of its volume is absolute alcohol. Liquors having a greater alcoholic strength are said to be above proof, and those having less to be below proof.

Q. What is an accolade? C. H.

A. An accolade is literally an embrace. The term is generally applied to a ceremony of salutation which marks the conferring of a knighthood or similar distinction.

Q. Please give me a quotation of the Spartans. J. S.

A. Probably the most famous quotation attributed to the Spartans is the laconic sentence of the Spartan mother, who said: "Either this, or upon this," when she handed her son his shield.

Q. How did gypsies get their name? F. F. T.

A. The name "gypsy" is probably derived from "Egyptian," by which term the gypsies were known in the English states.

Q. Where is the Long Bridge? R. A. G.

A. This name is applied to a bridge over the Potomac River, connecting Washington with the Virginia shore. During the Civil War it was the chief line of communication with the Army of the Potomac, and was strongly fortified.

Q. What is a pheasant shell? J. M. C.

A. This name is given to the shells of a gastropod mollusk of the family of Turridae which are much valued for their beauty, suggesting by their gorgeous metallic tints the plumage of pheasants.

MARSHALL FIELD III.

His desire to have the name of Marshall Field occupy a place in the financial world equal to that which his grandfather established in the dry goods business has caused Marshall Field III to engage in the investment banking business in Chicago. An announcement of his venture says Field has chosen for his associates in this work the partners of the firm of Gloré, Ward and Co., and with them has incorporated under the name of Marshall Field and Co.

Young Field always has shown an ambition to add more fame to the family name rather than to live on his ancestor's wealth. He took charge of the Field estate of $130,000,000 a year ago. He is the chief heir. At that time he was employed in the office of Leo J. Higgins and Co., in Chicago, a bond house, and was voted a regular fellow by his fellow clerks. He served in the U. S. Army as a captain during the World War.

New-York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, January 5.—Poverty and old age are a tragic combination, but nowhere do they appear so pathetically hopeless as in this great metropolis. Old Mina who sells the myriad of the theatrical publications from the doorways near Times Square after midnight, was found hobbling down to a pier of the North River the other night. By the nearest chance a policeman saw her before she plunged into the black waters.

Old Mina is 80, and she did not see how she could stand the ravages of another winter on the streets. She is just one of the army of men and women here who fight an almost ever losing battle against gaunt poverty. Walking along Fifth Avenue late I saw an ambulance back up to the door of a department store.

Soon there were lights and a tow-eled gray head rested on the ambulance litter. "Dropped over in his tracks of exhaustion," the ambulance surgeon said. "He's too old to work and too proud to beg so he got this job as a cleaner. Two hours finished him. We pick up cases like this almost every day."

As a rule these old people must putter around on small jobs at night. They polish the brass plates in front of office buildings, sweep out hallways and janitor—most of the time they are alone with their thoughts.

About the best care of the poverty-stricken aged is taken by a Swiss waiters' organization. They have a pleasant private house on an uptown street. Here the aged inmates play checkers, chess and smoke their pipes. They are not charity wards for each has during more active days contributed a certain amount toward old age independence, but few go to the place until their finances are completely gone.

An employment agency manager tells me the efforts of old men to get jobs is quite pathetic. They dye their hair and wear young men's clothes and many who prefer pipes smoke cigarettes. They stimulate youth to compete against youth.

New York's spirit is the spirit of youth. It apparently has no place for the old and enfeebled. The Bowery lodging houses are havens for old men who are up at dawn seeking a chance at small jobs to keep body and soul together.

The wife of a very wealthy man was arrested with a group of bandits after a pistol battle with the police in which the woman was shot in the arm. She is a woman who has traveled, is educated and bears every evidence of refinement. The police say that there are many women of this kind who work with thieves unbeknown to their families. The call of adventure is the prime motive. In a raid on an East Side warehouse last week ten men and one woman were taken to headquarters in a patrol. All the men had criminal records. The woman is happily married to all appearances and is a patron of the opera. She said the men and women in her set were dull and that she liked to get out and mingle with the men who lived by their wits and were not afraid of dangerous places.

It takes 25 minutes to walk up the stairs to the top of the Woolworth building. There is a walking club composed of men who have offices there, and twice a week they walk to the top. All declare the walks have improved them physically and mentally.

For "professional reasons" Maurice and Walton, who were divorced last year, are to renew their dancing partnership. Miss Walton hinted before sailing for Paris to join Maurice that they may be re-married. They dropped out of the spotlight after their separation. As a team they were in demand, but singly they found scant public favor.

"See here, private," shouted the lieutenant to the orderly. "Do you know anything of the captain's whereabouts?"

The orderly removed the clothespin from his mouth and saluted. "You can't blame me for it," he answered aggressively. "He's only got one pair and he's wearing them now."

The Woman Pays
Through the long summer hours she had done her best to let him see she liked him. But he wrapped himself in a cloak of cynicism and made no move.

"Marriage," he spoke bitterly. "Marriage is a mistake. Why should a man saddle himself with a wife for life, when he can buy a parrot for five dollars?"

"Yes," she retorted. "There again you men certainly have the advantage. We poor women can't buy a bear of any kind under $200."—Houston Post.

The Real Topic
"Are you still talking about what that audaciously dressed lady had on?"

"No," replied Miss Cayenne. "what she hadn't."
